

LATEST NOTE ON ITS WAY TO GERMANY

FINISHING TOUCHES PUT ON DOCUMENT AT NIGHT CONFERENCE AT WHITE HOUSE.

UPHOLDS U. S. RIGHTS

Any Repetition of Lusitania Disaster Will Be Regarded as "Unfriendly," Says Warning to Berlin Government.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, July 22.—The new American note to Germany is on its way to Berlin. It was cleared from Washington over the telegraph wires during the night and today was being mailed over the cables to London, and thence to Copenhagen, where it is to be delivered to the German foreign office. It should reach its destination tonight or early tomorrow.

Hold Night Conference.

The new note warning Germany that any repetition of a disaster similar to that of the Lusitania or any violation of American rights on the high seas resulting in the loss of American lives, will be viewed as "unfriendly," was ready today to be cabled to Berlin. The communication had been completed at a long conference between President Wilson and Secretary Lansing at the White House last night. The document was to be gone over by Secretary Lansing today to see if any minor changes in phraseology were necessary before dispatching it to Germany.

It will be made public simultaneously in Washington and Berlin on Saturday.

Holds to Previous Position.

Among the outstanding features of the note are a reiteration that the American government will leave nothing undone to stand by its position as previously declared; renewed insistence that Germany disavows the sinking of the Lusitania and a request for reparations; expression of a willingness to act as an intermediary between the belligerents to arrange a modus vivendi or any other temporary arrangement as to the conduct of maritime warfare which would involve a surrender by the United States of its rights; and a rejection of Germany's proposal to give immunity to American ships carrying contraband, and to foster belligerent ships under the American flag.

Secretary Lansing announced that the text of the note would be given out this afternoon for publication in morning papers of Saturday.

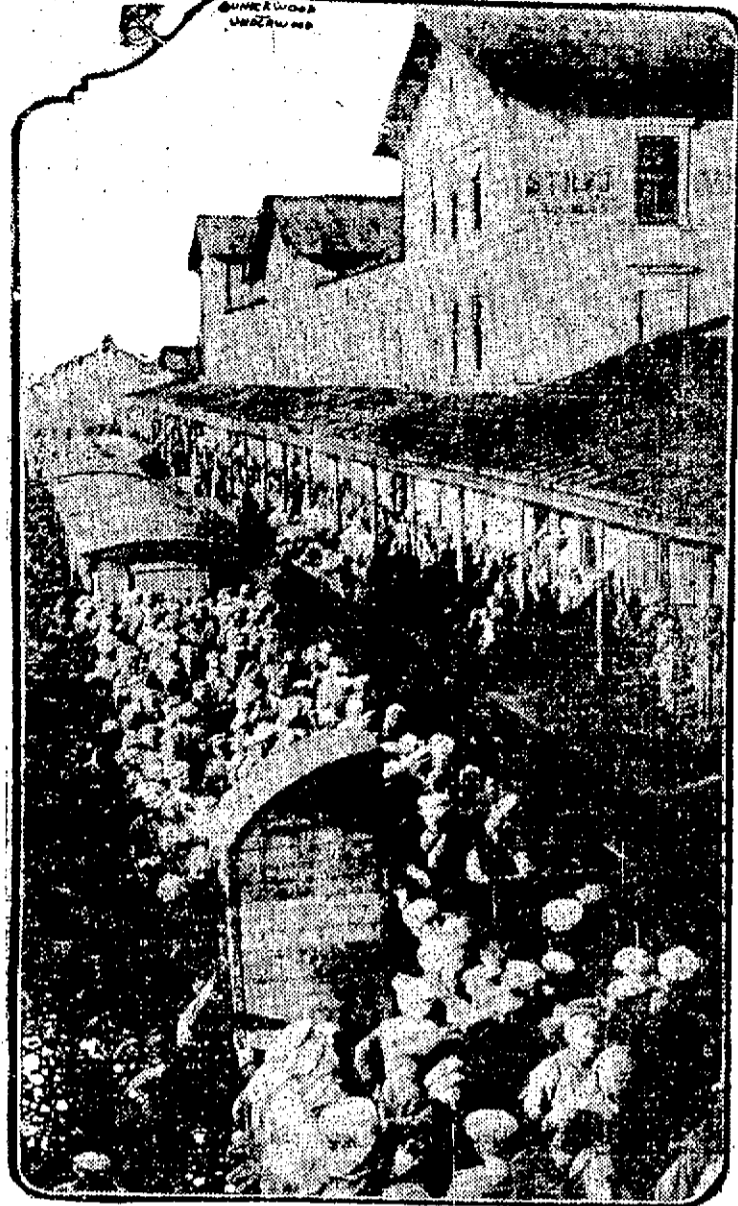

Concerning future conduct of Germany's submarines, the note does not necessarily state as an answer as it announces the intention of the United States to regard any future violation of international law—resulting in the loss of American lives, as unfriendly.

On the other hand, the American demands for disavowal of any intention to sink the Lusitania and the request for reparations are renewed in the note and vary little from those of the previous note.

The American note is in the nature of a final statement on the principles involved in the question of submarine warfare. It is generally agreed among officials here however, that any loss of American lives in the meantime, would in itself raise the question of action irrespective of any formal declaration of war.

CHANGES PLAN FOR MOTHERS' PENSIONS

Assembly Votes to Abandon the Present System of State Aid.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, July 22.—The assembly voted today to abandon the present system of state aid under the mother's pension law by a vote of forty-four to thirty.

It killed the Gamper amendment which would appropriate $2,000 state aid and voted for the Caldwell bill which makes the mother pension law compulsory in counties without state aid. Dependent mothers will be allowed fifteen dollars for the first child and ten dollars for additional children under terms of the bill which is modeled after the New York law.

The assembly killed the Mortenson bill to abolish the office of state claim agent and senate did likewise with Bickler bill having the same object.

The assembly killed the Caldwell bill to abolish the state fair and to create an annual agricultural exhibit at Madison; the bill creating a new judicial circuit out of Dane County; passed the home rule for cities amendment to the constitution and refused to pass over the governor's veto the Groll bill allowing saloons to open after the close of the poles on election day.

The senate passed the compromise bill on the county board of education by a unanimous vote.

Engrossment was ordered for bill appropriating $5,000 for a Wisconsin livestock exhibition at San Francisco; $15,000 for improving levees on Wisconsin river, and to return to the general fund the excess over $25,000 received each year by the Wisconsin grain and warehouse commission at Superior.

SCORE EXTRAVAGANT LAND PURCHASES OF STATE UNIVERSITY

Committee Reports That Course of Regents and President Has Been Unwise, Unsystematic and Wasteful.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., July 22.—Criticism of the land purchases of the university were made in a special report to the legislature by a joint committee which has been investigating the subject for the past three months.

"Your committee feels that the course of the regents and the president, who appears to have dominated the regents and who takes, in his testimony, the credit and the blame for all these purchases, has been unwise, unsystematic, wasteful and without regard to the welfare of the state," says the report in conclusion.

The report states that in all 111 parcels of land were purchased at a total cost of $586,049.62, and that $7 parcels were sold at a total price of $27,661.24. No lands have been sold since the year 1883 and the reason for selling those lands which have been sold was that in those days they did not have sufficient money to maintain the university and pay the salary of the trustees.

A sharp criticism is made of the purchase of the Olin-Raymer tract of land. The Raymer tract included 143.5 acres and was purchased for $175,000 in 1911. The Olin tract was composed of 28 acres and the price paid was $40,000. The report points out that these lands cost from $1,000 to $1,200 an acre, and that some of this land is now only used for pasture purposes.

"So far as agricultural experiments and pasturage are concerned," says the report, "our conclusion is that land further out and better adapted could have been secured at a much lesser price."

The report declares that purchases made in 1908 and 1909 of swamp lands for the purpose of maintaining an athletic field were not wise. It declares that an excessive price was paid for the Olin-Raymer tract of land and from the standpoint of the state these lands are valueless. The committee recommends that the Olin-Raymer tract be resold and that the swamp lands also be disposed of "if it is possible to secure the same price for them, or anything near that price in reason."

The purchase of the Raymer home-stead for $45,000 and the Olin home-stead for $55,000 is also roundly condemned in the report.

FOUR MEN INJURED AS CARS COLLIDED

Autos Traveling at High Rate of Speed Crash Together Near Racine—Occupants in Hospital.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Racine, July 22.—Four Illinois men are lying at a hospital in this city, one dead and three injured, as the result of a violent head on collision between two automobiles on the lake shore road at a point five miles south of here late last night.

The injured: Fred Patterson and Fred Correy, both of Lake Bluff, Ill., concussion of the brain; Theodore Cutz and Charles Leffingwell, Chicago, cut and bruised.

The two machines were wrecked. The injured men composed a party returning to Chicago from Milwaukee. The occupants of the other machine, owned by A. H. Land of Kenosha, were uninjured.

It is said the glare of the powerful headlights caused the drivers to misjudge the width of the roadway and the automobiles came together while traveling at a high rate of speed.

AUSTRO-GERMAN ARMY ADVANCES TO IVANGOROD, FIFTY-SIX MILES FROM WARSAW.

SLAVS FACE A CRISIS

Law Waste Country With Fire and Dynamite to Impede Invading German Forces—Russians Claim Their Burden Too Heavy.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, July 22.—The war office today announced that the Austro-German forces which are driving at Warsaw from the south had compelled the Russians to retreat into the fortress of Ivangorod, about fifty-six miles southeast of the Polish capital. The fortresses is now closely invested.

Advance Unchecked.

London, July 22.—While prayers for victory were being said throughout Russia, the Austrians and Germans continued their drive at Warsaw from the north, west and south. Meanwhile they were searching for the north towards Riga on the Baltic, from which their advance guard is not more than twenty miles distant.

The tone of dispatches from Petrograd bespeaks plainly that the country is aware of the gravity of the military situation involving not only the fate of the Polish capital, but the integrity of the Russian army in Poland, the northern army and the millions of which might be cut in twain by a decisive defeat along the Lublin-Chelm railway.

Plainly speaking, the Russians are falling back, employing tactics with which they harassed Napoleon in 1812. That is, they are wantonly burning all bridges and destroying roads and any flying waste the countryside with fire and dynamite, removing such provisions as they can take away, driving cattle and other livestock before them and leaving the invaders a ruined and desolate waste. All Courland has been laid waste and Windau, in flames, sends up a glow visible from the sea.

Situation Critical.

The situation, as the British press sees it, is critical, and the newspaper editorials remind Russia that as she checked the German at the gates of Warsaw last fall and drove them back within eleven miles of Lublin, so she should now hold them.

The situation with dispatches from Russia saying the Austro-German army is unbroken and the belief in ultimate victory is strong, comes the report that the feeling is growing that Russia is doing more than her share in the war, bearing at present almost the entire burden. These complaints, according to special correspondents, are not confined to the rank and file. Russian newspapers contrast the colossal battle in which their nation is engaged with the comparative inaction along the west front.

Belgian Consul Leaves.

Washington, July 22.—The American consul at Warsaw cabled the state department today that the Belgian consul left Warsaw and that Russian newspapers had taken charge of the affairs of both Belgium and Serbia there.

BARES GRAFT TALES TO IMMUNE HIMSELF

Barney Bertache Tells Inside Information Seeking Aid From Prosecution.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, July 22.—Christian E. Bertache, self-confessed "fixer," in the protection of criminals by bribing the police, resumed the witness stand today in the trial of former Detective Sergeant William Dagan and Walter O'Brien. Bertache admitted that he had hoped to secure immunity by his revelation of corrupt dealings with the police. It was brought out that Bertache's saloon cashed checks for policemen and other city employees aggregating $25,000 a month. Bertache said he frequently paid for automobiles used by policemen in pleasure trips. He said that one month his automobile bill was $250.

Bertache made no attempt to conceal the fact that he committed perjury in his trial in the criminal court when he was convicted of swindling Mrs. Hope L. McElldowney of La Crosse, Wis.

"I did it to give the policemen a clean bill of health and also to beat my own face," the witness said.

Bertache told of numerous conversations he had with former Police Captain Halpin in a downtown hotel to arrange for the protection of clairvoyant swindlers and wire-tappers.

ARCHITECTS SUING FORD COMPANY HEAD

Chicago Draftsmen Have Case Against Henry Ford—He Failed to Like Their Plans.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Detroit, Mich., July 22.—Henry Ford, automobile manufacturer, testified before a special master in chancery in United States court here today in a suit brought against him by Von Holst and Fyne, Chicago architects, who recently started construction of a country home for Mr. Ford near Detroit. The plaintiffs were discharged by Mr. Ford and are now suing for payment for services rendered.

Mr. Ford said the plans called for expenditure of $500,000 which he thought "too much to pay for a home," and he ordered the estimate cut about $275,000. The estimates called for an expenditure of $230,000 for the house proper were read into the evidence, the swimming pool alone to cost $75,000.

Washington, D. C., July 22.—Large increase in exports of explosives, iron and steel manufacturers, automobiles, leather, cotton, woolen goods and hardware all classes of goods, and in food stuffs are shown by detailed department of commerce statistics for May, issued today. Exports of explosives over May, 1914, increased five and a half millions dollars. The total for last May aggregated nine million, eight hundred dollars.

STATE RETAIL LIQUOR DEALERS ELECT OFFICERS

Kaukauna, Wis., July 22.—T. M. Gahman of Watertown was re-elected president of the State Retail Liquor Dealers' Protective Association here today. Other officers elected were: Vice president, W. F. Schulz, Sheboygan; secretary, A. E. Raiber, Appleton; treasurer, C. A. Hartwig, Manitowish; executive committee, W. J. Gleason and Jacob Killa, both of Milwaukee. It was decided to put an organizer in the field, who will begin his duties immediately. Menasha was chosen as the next convention city after a spirited contest.

TWO KILLED DURING RIOTS AT BAYONNE

SERIOUS TROUBLES ARE EXPERIENCED AMONG STRIKERS AT STANDARD OIL WORKS.

STATE TROOPS CALLED

Gov. Fielder Will Send State Militia—Sheriff Calls for Aid of Federal Mediators From Washington.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, July 22.—Two men were killed and three were wounded today in a street fight which developed at the works of the Standard Oil company at Bayonne, N. J., and Tidewater works adjoining. A heavy rain storm which came up at the time helped drive the rioters under cover.

Sheriff Kinkead of Hudson county has requested Governor Fielder to call out troops to cope with the situation. Sends for Mediators.

After several shots had been fired by the strikers and guards the crowd withdrew. Sheriff Kinkead telephoned to the department of labor at Washington to ask that mediators be dispatched immediately to Bayonne to try to end the trouble.

Shortly before noon, after several hours of peace, a crowd of five hundred assembled at the barrel works of the Tidewater Oil company and began an attack on the guards there. Sticks, stones and revolvers were used, and the guards replied with Winchester.

Among several orators who addressed the strikers, was Frank Tannenbaum, an Industrial Worker of the World leader. At one gathering the men did not take to his utterances and he was hanged down.

The plant of the Tidewater Oil company remained closed today. Its officials issued another statement reiterating that there was no strike at the works; that the men were loyal and left only when they were driven out by a mob, and that the plant was shut down because the management "did not deem it safe for the men to be through the mob which is in control of the Constable Hook section of Bayonne."

Two Men Are Shot.

Two men were shot this morning in a riot which broke out in front of the plant of the Standard Oil company in Bayonne, N. J., where several thousand oil workers had been on strike against the Standard Oil company. The two men were said to have been shot by the company's guards, during an attack made by a large crowd on the Tidewater plant. The fighting was still in progress shortly after nine o'clock.

Hundreds of strikers gathered early on the streets of Bayonne and then moved towards the plant of the Standard Oil company. There a small fire broke out in the company's yard inside the oil company's yards. It was quickly extinguished.

The crowd also surrounded the works of the Tidewater Oil company which closed down its plant yesterday in order to avoid trouble. This order developed and in the fight the guards drew their revolvers and fired into the crowd. The strikers and their companions hurried them away to a drug store. While the fighting was going on it was reported that the state troops had been ordered out.

Governor Promises Troops.

Governor Fielder of New Jersey promised early today to call out troops of the New Jersey national guard to quell disorders among strikers at the Standard Oil company's plant in Bayonne. Sheriff Kinkead said he deemed it necessary.

Request Received.

Trenton, N. J., July 22.—The request for troops was made to the governor at his law office in Jersey City. The governor at once communicated by phone with Adjutant General Wilbur S. Sadler in Trenton, and General Sadler at the governor's request left at once for Jersey City to consult the governor.

It is understood that Sheriff Kinkead has expressed the fear that the swearing in of deputies would aggravate the situation in Bayonne, and for that reason made the request for troops.

Affects Other Plants.

Belhaven, North Carolina, July 22.—Eight hundred employees, mostly negroes, were thrown out of work today by the closing of the Interstate Co-operative company's plant, whose output was taken by the Bayonne Oil Works. Officers of the company say the shut down is for a week only.

STATE FEDERATION OF LABOR ON CO-OPERATION

Superior, Wis., July 22.—Closer co-operation between the farmers and laboring classes in the distribution of farm products, was urged by M. W. Tubbs of Madison representing the American Society of Equity of Wisconsin in an address before the State Federation of Labor here today. The speaker argued for a system of distribution that would give the necessities of life from the farm producers to the laboring man consumer.

A FOOT NOTE

Summer comfort should extend from the feet up.

Have you the kind of shoes you need for every day, for vacation sports?

Your feet are friends that deserve good treatment—the best, not necessarily the most expensive, are none too good for them.

And are you sure you are getting the best? Other words are you "shoe wise?"

Wisdom is the child of knowledge and perhaps you can find the interesting path to "shoe knowledge" in the advertising columns of The Gazette.

"BELOIT TRIP WAS GREAT" SAY BOYS

Forty Juniors Enjoy Auto Ride to Line
City Yesterday—Visit New Y.
M. C. A. Factories and College.
Forty Y. M. C. A. Juniors piled into automobiles, donated for the occasion by citizens and fathers, yesterday morning shortly after seven o'clock and proceeded to Beloit for a half day outing. They made the trip in a little less than an hour and started right in to "see the town." They first visited the new Y. M. C. A. building, which they report is one of the most modern and well equipped buildings of its kind in this vicinity. An inspection tour was then made through the Fairbanks-Morse Machine company, where the boys received many educational inspirations as well as practical ideas of how "things are made." The next point of interest was from this place they proceeded to the college. They went through the buildings and looked over the grounds of this institution and were then ready to motor back to Janesville. All had a wonderful trip and enjoyed themselves immensely. The trip was one of the scheduled summer outings.
Few of the boys, but G. A. Jacobs motored over with them and G. S.
Parker, and F. S. Barnes cheerfully conducted their cars and furnished a driver also. Others gave over their cars for the trip, for which the Y. M.
C. A. are very grateful.

CITY WAITS TO HAVE SUMMER OUTING HERE

Arrangements Made for Thirty Upsilon

Household Economics to take thirty of the thousands of little waifs of the big dusty city, who have never seen anything outside the great stone buildings and narrow dark alleyways, for a week or two of outing in the fresh air of the country. August fourth has been decided upon as the date and the committee will be ready to receive offers to take children for this period, probably one or two children to a home.

Angel's Summons Early Today—
Funeral Saturday.
After an illness of three weeks
Mrs. Fred Chesmore, a well known resident of the town of Harmony, passed away about 2 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Chesmore was thirty-seven years of age, being born in the city of Philon, April 5, 1878. On Oct. 26, 1904, she was united in marriage to Fred Chesmore. Her maiden name was Myrtle E. Proctor. Two children came of the union, Thelma and Vanda, the latter deceased. Besides the husband and children, she was survived by her mother, Mrs. W.
C. Proctor, of the city of Beloit, and one daughter, Mrs. Chesmore is survived by four sisters: Mrs. P. J. Ches-more, Mrs. A. J. Boon and Miss Edna and Miss Leah Proctor and two brothers, S. Proctor of Miles City, Mont., and D. Proctor of Holden, El-berta, Can.
Burial will be made in Oak Hill cemetery here on Saturday afternoon following services at the home in the town of Harmony at 2 o'clock.

ANTISDEL ANNOUNCES EXAMINATION DATES

Teachers' Examinations Will Be Held at High School Building Next Thursday and Friday.
County Superintendent O. D. Antisdel announces Thursday and Friday, July 23 and 24, as the dates for the midsummer teachers' examinations, which will be held at the local high school building. Questions will be submitted for all grades of certificates.
In addition to those who are attending the summer session, Mr. Antisdel does not anticipate a very large number of teachers who will write on the question as there are at present so many teachers holding either first or second grade certificates or who have been graduated from the Rock county training school. Those completing the course at the training school receive a five year certificate if they are high school graduates, and a three year certificate if they are not, providing their first year's work is satisfactory to the county superintendent.
If there is any question as to the subjects and the hours of the examination, information may be secured at the county superintendent's office.
It is probable that examination dates will also be announced for the early fall.

The tax assessment for the city of Janesville for the present year has been completed by City Assessor Frank L. Smith, who is engaged in making the tax roll books to be balanced soon. Taxpayers whose property has been raised this year have been notified to that effect, and these will all other who wish to ascertain their assessments should call at the assessor's office at the city hall during the remainder of the week.

Wood Fires.

Do you know that there is a differ-that others pass with gracious calm, and still others give up their dearest

SENATE ENGROSSES NEW HIGHWAY BILL

MEASURE COMBINES STATE AND COUNTY SYSTEMS OF ROAD CONSTRUCTION.

MAY ABOLISH PRIMARY

Senate Engrosses Bichler Bill Providing a Return to Party Convention System.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., July 22.—The special committee on highways combination bill providing for a combination of the county and state systems of road construction received the senate's endorsement yesterday afternoon by being sent to engrossment. It gives the county construction authority in highway construction and reduces the limit of money that may be used for such work each year to about one-third of the present amount. The bill in its drafting was in part the work of Assemblyman Bichler, who is chairman of the committee. The bill is required to be passed by the senate in order to receive aid for highways.

Provides County Committee.—The bill provides for a county highway committee to have charge of highway and bridge construction work subject to advisory supervision by the state commission. In Milwaukee the committee is composed of the county clerk, the county engineer, and the county treasurer. Each county is to elect a committee member, who is to be chosen for two years and be under the control of the county highway committee. Salaries of county commissioners are to run from $800 a year to $1,200 in counties doing over $50,000 worth of highway work a year.

In a separate bill the state aid is systematized. It is provided that the state is to pay one-third the county and the town or village one-third the cost of highway and bridge improvement. In the construction of strictly state highways the county pays 40 per cent and the state 60 per cent. State aid is to be apportioned on the basis of the as-essed valuation of property in a county to the total amount of available. Counties are limited in levying taxes for highway aid to two mills per dollar on the assessed valuation of less than $500,000; from $500,000 to $1,000,000 to one and one-half mills; and towns of over $1,000,000 to one mill.

The Everett bill extending the payments of the $225,000 state fair appropriations over a period of five years was engrossed, 22 to 4.

The house bill to license all but-ter and cheese-makers in the state was amended by Senator Bosshard to exempt products made on one's own farm, and then referred to the state affairs committee.

Favor Party Conventions.—The return to the party convention system, which the senate rejected in defeating the Bichler bill some time ago, was this morning approved by the senate in engrossing the Bichler bill, 15 to 14, as follows:

For the bill—Ackley, Albers, Benson, Bichler, Bray, Burke, Fairchild, Hanson, Kellogg, Martin, Mulberger, Perry, Rollmann, Staudenmayer, Whitman.—15.
Against—Barwig, Baxter, Bosshard, Culbertson, Cunningham, Everett, Glenn, Huber, Monk, Pottinger, Stevens, Tomkins, Weissleder.—14.

Delegates to the state party convention, provided by the bill, are to be elected by county conventions, made up of delegates one for every 50 voters. The county convention is to be held the first Tuesday in April of each year. Candidates for delegates are to be nominated by nomination papers. The county committee shall call the county convention not later than ten days before the state convention of the party.

The state convention is to be held not later than July 15 of state election year, and shall be called by the state central committee. The state central committee shall elect a national party committee and nominate presidential electors.

The senate ordered to third reading the Hambricht bill providing for the crossing of railroad rights-of-way with amendments by Senators Bosshard and Hanson, making exceptions in the case of attorneys and newspaper reporters investigating accidents and wrecks. The vote on the bill was 17 to 12.

Save Twenty-Five Days.—The senate engrossed and under suspension of the rules concurred in the assembly bill authorizing the installation of an electrical device for recording the votes of members of the assembly. Milwaukeean B. L. Bobroff, the inventor, and Governor Philipp signs the bill Wisconsin will be the first state to adopt such a system, which is estimated to save twenty-five legislative days.

otherwise consumed in taking verbal roll-calls. A committee of congress recently approved its installation in the house of representatives by the adjournment of congress. Forestalled further action at the last session.

The senate killed the Woodard bill denying state aid to more than two agricultural fairs in one county and allowing directors, stockholders, newspaper reporters and several other classes free passes. The bill was championed by Senator Ackley, who said it was wanted by officers of the Northern Wisconsin state fair at Chippewa Falls.

The senate rejected Senator Ackley's amendment reducing the appropriation for the state banking department, and sent the finance committee bill unchanged to third reading. It gives the department $45,000 annually for two years, plus $5,000 for contingencies. The department's increase of $10,000 was explained by committee to be necessary for the supervision of the 60 new banks organized in the state. The senate likewise rejected Senator Ackley's amendment reducing the appropriation for current expenses of the State institution from $30,000 to $15,000. The bill carries a total biennial appropriation of $85,000 for running expenses, equipment of buildings and permanent improvements.

Rural School Aid.—The Bennett bill giving state aid of $50 to each rural school maintaining the standard course of study and conforming to the state's regulations on sanitation and upkeep, was engrossed and then passed.

Senator Martin's bill expounding the former Commissioner Egan for a joint committee to investigate the fire hazard in the state was killed, 15 to 10, but the senate engrossed the companion bill for an appropriation of $100,000 to provide sprinkler equipment at the state hospitals for the insane. The bill had received an adverse report from the finance committee.

The Mortensen bill repealing the county board of education law was laid over one week. The senate concurred in the Johnson bill transferring duties of the state fire marshal's department and readjusting the work of the department in various ways.

Reduce Appropriations.—New bills by the finance committee came into the senate appropriating $110,000 annually for the state industrial commission, a cut of $10,000 from the last appropriation, and appropriating $70,000 annually for the dairy and food commission and weights and measures department, reduced $10,000.

The senate rejected Senator Ackley's amendments to the State historical society's appropriation bill, intended to cut the finance committee's grants, and sent the bill to third reading. It carries $50,000, together with other amounts for specific purposes. The bill appropriating $68,425 to the estate of the late C. F. Viskahn, Waterbury, in payment for his services as a member of the state board of teacher's examiners, was passed.

Senator Whitman secured leave to introduce a bill appropriating $25,000 to pay off the debts of the state board of agriculture incurred by the last fair.

MARTYRS OF SUBURBIA

By FRANK FILSON.

(Copyright, 1914, by W. G. Chapman.)

Young Mrs. Raleigh cast a furtive look after her husband as he disappeared at a run round the corner of the lane. Then she sank down into a chair and had a good cry.

They had been married a month, and were in full possession of their suburban home.

"When we are married, dear, we will live in the country," her husband had said to her. "No noisy, grimy city streets for us."

"Yes, dear," Dora had answered. "And we will have chickens and roses—"

Of course, it was possible to procure help from town—not locally, since all the girls drifted into the factory, five miles away, by the screech of whose whistle the Raleighs set their watches. But made would not stay; they generally set down their bags, sniffed, and took their departure. So young Mrs. Raleigh did her own cooking and sweeping.

The chickens died of the plp, except three, which died of the gapes, and one, a rooster, which Dora had subsequently seen in the backyard of Henry Foulkes, the colored man who tried to make the vegetables grow.

The electric light bill was twice as high as they had calculated, and gas seemed to cost a dollar a cubic foot.

No wonder Mrs. Raleigh had a good cry before she started seeding the grit out of the local grocer's seeded raisins!

The hardest thing was to put on an expression of cheerfulness when Henry came home. That night she dried her eyes and practiced a welcome smile until she could do no better. Then she sat under the honeysuckle with her garden hat on, which was the way her husband liked to see her.

When at last she saw him coming up the lane she was surprised at his dejected look. And there was no doubt about it—Henry positively slouched!

The minute he came within a stone's throw of the front door the slouch disappeared. He appeared spry and springy. He positively reeked with enthusiasm.

"And how have things been going, dearest?" he inquired.

"Finely, dearest," answered Mrs. Raleigh. "There is a chance of getting a maid next week, too. Uncle John writes from New York that he is thinking of sending his wife's maid into the country to regain her strength. She has been somewhat run down, you know. Only there's something wrong with the furnace, dear. It won't draw any more."

"It never did draw," said her husband, ruefully. "I guess it's the coal."

"So I had to get a cold supper," his wife concluded.

They ate their dinner in silence. An evil thought was growing rapidly inside Mrs. Dora's pretty head and she fought it back for all she was worth.

After dinner they crouched over the cheerful old stove and stretched out their hands to the blaze.

"Dora," said her husband, rather shamefacedly, "I had lunch with Griggsen today in his new apartment on Riverside drive. He has the cutest little place imaginable and no trouble with the things that bother us—heating and lighting. He laughed at me for a country boy. Naturally he doesn't understand. If he could come home and see you under the honeysuckle—"

"It will be fine when it blooms, won't it, dear?"

"And the clematis has positively grown. I measured it yesterday, and it is an inch longer than when we set it in. Well, as I was saying, those poor city fellows don't know what life means. They think it consists of going to theaters—"

"Yes, and having lobster suppers afterward," said Dora Raleigh scornfully.

"And taking taxicabs and seeing the cheerful—I mean cheerful lights of the city. And having a lot of noisy people round in the evenings instead of enjoying the calm and quiet of the country."

"And—and going out to supper when they feel like it, and—and seeing the picture galleries, and the park, and—and musical evenings—"

Dora, hysterically.

"And not having to run for trains in the morning," her husband continued.

"They don't get the benefit of the fresh country air. They don't half live. What with their entertainments and late hours and friends always dropping in—"

"Henry! Don't!" screamed Mrs. Dora Raleigh, bursting into hysterical tears.

"Dearest! What is it?" demanded her husband, holding her in his arms, while a wild light of incredulous hope came into his eyes.

"I tried not to—tell you, but I just hate the old country," sobbed Dora Raleigh. "I want—to—get—back to town! There!"

"So do I, Dora," whispered her husband into her ear. "I only came here to please you."

"To please me, Henry? Why, I came here to please you."

"I bet you don't hate it as much as I do," answered Henry Raleigh.

"Why, I'm just pinning for a lobster supper now."

"Well, we'll have one when this month is up," answered Dora.

"No we won't," shouted her husband. "I mean, yes we will, but—listen, Dora!—we'll have one in town tonight also!"

How to find your sensible cigarette

The cigarette that you'll stick to when you find it must "make good" to you in three different ways.

It must delight your taste.

It must be cool and friendly to your throat and tongue.

It must leave you feeling as fit as a fiddle at the end of a hard-smoking day.

On the last two points we match Fatima against any cigarette in the world—it can't be beaten. You can prove that by these two tests.

But when it comes to taste, that's up to you. There's no telling, until you try them, whether Fatimas will just suit your taste or not.

They are the biggest selling cigarette, costing over 5c, in the world. If so many thousands of men prefer Fatima's taste, it's pretty sure that you will, too.

Why don't you try them?

If you do happen to like their famously good taste, remember that Fatimas are the most SENSIBLE cigarette you can buy.

Buy your trial package of Fatimas today.

TWO TESTS FOR ANY CIGARETTE

The taste of the cigarette—according to a leading tobacco journal—is up to the smoker. But there are other qualities that you should look for in the cigarette that you are going to smoke. One is that it should be cool and friendly to your throat and tongue. Another is that it should leave you feeling as fit as a fiddle at the end of a hard-smoking day.

Test number one—How do you feel after smoking all day? If the tobacco in the cigarette is of inferior grade, you will find it difficult to keep the tip of your tongue from sticking to the tip of your tongue. That is a sure sign of a poor cigarette.

Test number two—How do you feel after smoking all day? If the tobacco in the cigarette is of inferior grade, you will find it difficult to keep the tip of your tongue from sticking to the tip of your tongue. That is a sure sign of a poor cigarette.

But with another cigarette in which the blend is of the highest grade, you will find it easy to keep the tip of your tongue from sticking to the tip of your tongue. That is a sure sign of a good cigarette.

Clip out these tests and try them on Fatima.

STEMPER BILL GOES TO GOVERNOR TODAY

Much Discussed Liquor License Bill Is Finally Disposed of By the Legislature.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, July 22.—The legislature has finally disposed of the Stemper liquor license bill. The assembly concurred in the senate amendments last night. The bill was in the engrossing room today and it is said will get to the governor in all probability before nightfall. This bill permits every city to have the same number of saloons which existed in 1907. Any new saloons in the future, or any saloons in new territory must be on the ratio of one saloon for every 500 inhabitants.

At the present time the ratio is one saloon to every 250 inhabitants.

Assemblyman E. A. Everett made an attempt to kill the Bosshard bill which would appropriate $2,000 to John A. Aylward and M. E. Olbrich for defending former insurance Commissioner Herman L. Ekern in the ouster proceedings brought by Governor McGovern. The measure was defeated by Assemblymen Hambricht and Budlong.

Budlong said that no man could say that he supported the bill out of belief in the political principles of the members of the progressive wing of the republican party.

"If there ever was a stalwart in the state of Wisconsin, I claim to be him," declared Assemblyman Budlong.

The motion to kill the bill failed by a vote of 37 to 42. The measure was passed by that vote and goes back to the senate for enrollment and then to the governor.

The Burke bill for separate liquor licenses for wholesalers and retailers of liquor was concurred in, over the protests of Assemblyman Jacob Killia of Milwaukee.

The Bray bill to authorize the stringing of the transmission lines of the Wisconsin River Power company on public lands at Mendota was concurred in by Assemblyman Carl Hanson.

He moved a reconsideration of the vote by which the Martin bill to permit the investment of trust funds in public utility bonds and Assemblyman Hambricht moved a reconsideration of the vote.

Without waiting to work out the details Mr. Daniels seized upon the idea and gave a glowing statement to the press. It was at least good advertising and—if it does not work in practice it will at least have served Mr. Daniels' chief purpose. It will have advertised him favorably and the public will have forgotten it long before it proves a failure. The friends of the navy, however, earnestly hope it will prove practicable and will greatly benefit the naval establishment.

Small-pox evidently had no permission to step in and stop the mature deliberations of the Wisconsin legislature, so the delay in adjourning continues while the "tax-enters" continue to slaughter administration bill after administration bill in the hopes of holding onto their jobs as state employees for two years more at least.

Tax-enters and tax-reducers are hard at it up at Madison. Thus far the tax-enters are having the best of it but the tax-reducers' time will come when the governor refuses to sign measures which call for appropriations that he does not consider just.

The La Follette-Husting combine may result in the defeat of all the economy program of the 1915 Wisconsin legislature, but it may also work as a roorback when the taxpayers come to vote for United States senator again.

Chicago saloon-keepers, and on the west side, too, have discovered the trend of public opinion and are going to close Sundays from now on. Will liquor interests noticed which way the wind is blowing?

Did you ever notice how conventions will pass resolutions approving of or condemning this or that bit of legislation and then read in another column that the legislature had passed or rejected it, always contrary to the resolution's purpose?

It must be comforting for Willson to feel that former President Taft is behind him, although if war actually came he would feel much safer if the ex-president stood two paces to the front and center.

Now is the time to organize another United States army. The present one is busy most of the time sitting along the Mexican frontier watching the Mexicans fight, guarding Huerta.

That university mill tax bill is still causing a lot of uneasiness on the part of the university "politicians" who hate to see any of their "rights" usurped by the taxpayer.

On the surface there is no cause for any unfriendly relations between this country and Germany, but under the surface—well, then come the submarines.

The dates of the fairs are rapidly approaching and the fat stock and fine equines are being groomed to the minute so as to make the best showing possible.

St. Louis plans for a pie-eating and a wienerswurst-gobbling contest. Truly, the Missouri city wishes to be classed as strictly neutral to say the least.

Between Bryan and Roosevelt, Willson should have no trouble in finding a safe and sane middle course to follow.

Is there not some way for a war-ridden country to voloplane back to the safe and sane plan of peace?

Geographic Society's War Primer

Washington, D. C., July 19.—"A survey of the coast geography of the British Isles shows some things of tremendous interest, when considered with reference to the blockade undertaken by the Germans, the most serious blockade ever attempted against the United Kingdom," begins a bulletin just issued by the National Geographic Society.

The bulletin just issued by the National Geographic Society shows a few of the difficulties in the way of maintaining an effective blockade of the many-harbored, sea-encircled nation. "The bulletin continues:

"Great Britain is a land of harbors and highly developed ports. Its foreign commerce clears from more than 120 seaports that are situated upon every sea washing the island. To shut off English commerce is almost impossible. The sea-strength, moreover, besides its wealth and widely scattered harbors, the United Kingdom has a particularly irregular coastline which would serve to greatly multiply the labor of a blockader.

"Broken by rocky headlands, bays, and deeply penetrating inlets of the sea, the English coastline alone stretches for a distance of 2,350 miles. To the south, upon the English Channel, lie the great seaports of Plymouth, Southampton, Portsmouth, Brighton and Dover; to the east, toward the North Sea, are the ports of London, Great Yarmouth, Hull and Newcastle; and to the west, toward the Atlantic and the Irish Sea, are Bristol, Cardiff, Swansea and Liverpool. Hundreds of smaller ports are sprinkled in between these great harbors of world fame.

These English ports, Liverpool is said to have the best developed harbor in the world, more coal is shipped from Cardiff than from any other seaport; Glimsby is the fishing capital of the world, and London is more intimately connected with the ports on every sea than any other harbor. England has expanded her freetrade foresight in the improvement of her seaports, and so the war facilities upon every hand, with dry docks and shipyards in every more important harbor, with equipment to carry on a great foreign trade from more than 100 different points.

"Scotland is a still more baffling problem to an intending blockader. Probably, its most striking feature is the variety of its coastline, and its coast upon the entire island is by an intricate mass of bold rocky islands. Though much smaller in area than England, Scotland has a coastline of 2,300 miles, or one mile of coast to every 100 square miles of area. Leith, Dundee and Aberdeen are important ports upon the North Sea; the east, Inverness sends its shipping to the Atlantic, and Glasgow, with its famous shipbuilding works and vast foreign trade, lies to the west. The North Channel and the open Atlantic places in Scotland lie more than 40 miles from the sea, and smaller ports dot the entire coastline.

"Ireland's greatest ports, Belfast and Dublin, are situated upon her east coast, on the Irish Sea. The restless breaking of a rough Atlantic over the rocky needles of her west coast has retarded the development of commercial harbors there. Limerick, upon the River Shannon, harbor, while Queenstown is an outlet in the south and Londonderry in the north.

"With its more than 6,500 miles of coastline, and its well-developed harbors all along the way, the United Kingdom presents a problem of extreme difficulty to any power intending to maintain blockade against it."

ANNUAL COTTON CARNIVAL: GALVESTON HAS AMBITION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Galveston, Tex., July 22.—The seventh annual cotton carnival swung its doors open to the public today. The city was gay with bunting in a celebration which will continue to August 1.

As part of it, a big conference will be held here, starting the 26th, at which mayors and other city and town officials from all parts of the state will be asked to cooperate in making Texas cities better from a civic standpoint.

Galveston, the city which gave to the world the commission form of government, feels that it is especially fitting that here should start a new movement, looking to the uplift of all Texas cities—and other about the nation if they desire to follow the Lone Star lead.

LORD KITCHENER SHOWS NO SIGNS OF BREAKING UNDER STRESS OF WORK

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

London, July 22.—Although he has just passed his sixty-fifth birthday, Lord Kitchener shows no sign of breaking down under the fifteen-hour workday that he set for himself on taking charge of the war office at the beginning of hostilities. In this interval, he has slept out of London only four times. He has a bed in the war building for emergencies and always lunches there.

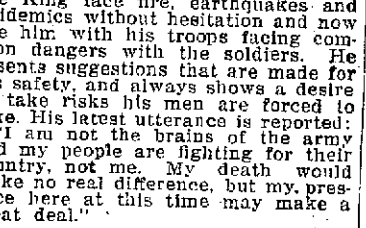

Lord Kitchener day begins at St. James Palace at 7 o'clock in the morning. At 8:10, he spends ten or fifteen minutes at breakfast. Breakfast is followed by a walk in St. James park to the war office, where he arrives at 9 o'clock. Important dispatches must first be cleared away. There are often meetings of the cabinet or of the high explosives of other committees to attend. Luncheon is a matter of fifteen minutes, usually taken about 1:45. From then until 7:30 in the evening, he works steadily. If there is business of extreme urgency on hand, he continues without dinner. Otherwise, he dines and stays on duty until about 11 o'clock, when he retires to bed in his rooms in St. James Palace.

A somewhat rare form of relaxation of the war lord is a drive into the country in his motor car. Ordinarily his walk in the park is his only exercise. He eats abstemiously, drinking nothing at meals and follows the King's example in regard to liquors. But he does enjoy a cigar after meals.

ITALIAN KING DISREGARDS PRECAUTIONS FOR SAFETY.

Rome, July 22.—King Victor Emanuel is becoming known to Italians as "The Fearless." Admirers have seen the King face fire, earthquakes and epidemics without hesitations and now he is being seen in the soldiers. He resents suggestions that he made for his safety, and always shows a desire to take risks his men are forced to take. His latest utterance is reported: "I am not the brains of the army and my people are fighting for their country, not me. My death would make no real difference, but my presence here at this time may make a great deal."

TWO BANDS PLAN TO HOLD CONCERTS AT COURT HOUSE PARK

Bower City and Moose Bands Schedule Concerts for This Evening in Same Location.

There promises to be lots of music and perhaps something else, when the rival concert of the Moose and Bower City bands start this evening at the Court House park as per schedule.

Both bands have announced they will give postponed concerts this evening and scheduled them at the same time and same location. In justice to both bands it might be stated that until it was too late to change the location did they know the other organization was planning a concert.

The program is as follows:
March—"Gloria".....Lesley Overture—"Romantic".....Kelley

March—"The Kiss That".....James March—"His Majesty".....James

"My Return Mother Darling to".....Keithley Tipperary (by request).....Smith March—"Blue Label".....Keithley

It was not until noon that the Bower City musicians noted the fine weather and decided on their postponed concert, and while their program has not been made out, it will give music and good music, they state.

It will be interesting to note which band will be the victor and it is barely possible that they will give two concerts, perhaps alternating in the numbers. At any rate there promises to be lots of fun and, perhaps, a surplus of music at the Court House park this evening.

WILL POST TRAFFIC SIGNS NEXT WEEK

Police Will Take Steps to Enforce Ordinance Against Parking Vehicles Between Certain Points.

Within a few days a new means of enforcing the city ordinance prohibiting the parking of automobiles or other vehicles on West Milwaukee street between the public alley adjoining T. P. Burns' drug store on West Milwaukee street, on East Milwaukee street, under no conditions is the standing or parking of vehicles between these points allowed, and Chief of Police Champion is obtaining signs to be placed at various points along the route to give warning.

No violator of this ordinance to date has been arrested, but warnings have been repeatedly given to careless drivers to obey the regulations, as the street is not sufficiently wide enough to carry traffic with cars or rigs parked along the curb when a street car is passing. When the signs are posted, drivers will be issued to the traffic officer stationed at Main and Milwaukee streets to cease the warning tactics, as the ignorance of the ordinance will not be an accepted excuse with the signs posted.

Very little trouble has been experienced in the department since the rigid enforcement of the traffic regulations, except for speed violations. This evil is rapidly being eliminated until of late it is seldom that an offender is brought to the station. Since Chief Champion brought several cases to court over the cutting of corners at intersections by drivers, especially at Main and Milwaukee streets, auto owners have learned to turn the corners right and not as a result of the campaign is most marked in the driving and a material reduction in the number of accidents. Because of the single street system the Jamesville police department will employ the late model traffic posts which are being extensively used by other cities. These posts are placed in the center of the street and serve in the place of a traffic officer in making drivers turn square corners.

NEW FEDERAL RULING FOR PARCEL POST
Regulations Regarding Fourth Class Matter Amended to Include Wider Number of Articles.

Notice of several new amendments to the postal laws have been received here by the postoffice authorities. Most important is the new ruling that all fourth class matter shall embrace all other matter, including farm and factory products, including tools, not heretofore embraced in the law in either first or second class matter.

An exception is made of books, third class matter, in this instance. The new matter which patrons are privileged to send must not exceed fifty pounds in weight when mailed for delivery in the first or second zones or over twenty pounds when consigned within any of the other zones. The parcel must not be more than 10 inches in length and girth combined, and must not be in any form liable to injure the person or any postal employee or damage mail equipment or other mail matter. It also must not be of a character perishable within a period reasonably required for transportation and delivery.

A major exception wherein postoffice patrons are exceedingly lax is their failure to place their name and address on the package they mean for parcel post delivery. It is imperative that this should be done.

New Fire Peril.
Birds carrying matches to their nests under the eaves of a college building in New York were blamed for a fire starting. The new art of fire prevention would preferably place the blame on the human agency which left such dangerous little weapons as matches where the birds could find them to carry them to the eaves.

REDUCE ESTIMATES FOR OPERATION OF STATE INSTITUTIONS

Appropriation Bill for Eleven Penal and State Institutions Reduced by About Seven Hundred Dollars.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., July 22.—The estimated appropriations necessary to operate the eleven penal and penal institutions under the direction of the state board of control have been reduced by upwards of $700,000 for the fiscal year 1916.

The joint finance committee of the legislature today today Chairman Kubasta had not computed the aggregate total necessary to operate these institutions, but was able to give the following figures for each separate institution.

In the budget presented to the legislature for the coming two years the amount of money to be appropriated for the operation of the state board of control has been reduced by $3,301,702. In the bill presented to the legislature by the finance committee the estimates for each institution are pared down, in many instances by a substantial amount.

To attend to the general functions of the board there annually appropriated $50,000, as compared with $68,000 two years ago.

The annual appropriation for the operation of the state hospital for the insane at Mendota is increased from $84,000 to $72,250. On July 1, 1916, $10,000 becomes available for property and construction of the hospital. In addition, $23,500 becomes available July 1, 1916, and $2,100 on July 1, 1916, for construction of a physicians' residence, for a greenhouse and a garden house, and for furniture and equipment of the hospital.

At the Northern Hospital, near Oshkosh, there is appropriated July 1, 1916, $171,580, and annually from July 1, 1916, $175,580 for operation. For repairs and maintenance $7,200 is appropriated July 1, 1916, and $5,000 on July 1, 1916. On July 1, 1916, $1,100, and on July 1, 1916, $1,000 is appropriated for purchase of an auto truck for other permanent improvements.

There has been practically no cut for the School for the Deaf at Delavan. Beginning July 1, 1916, $65,945 is annually appropriated for operation. For repairs and maintenance $7,200 is appropriated July 1, 1916, and $5,000 on July 1, 1916. On July 1, 1916, $1,100, and on July 1, 1916, $1,000 is appropriated for purchase of an auto truck for other permanent improvements.

There is an increase for School for the Blind at Jamesville. The old appropriation of $17,000 has been increased to $55,925 annually for operation. On July 1, 1916, $14,000, and on July 1, 1916, $12,500 is appropriated for repairs and maintenance. Beginning July 1, 1916, $1,100, and on July 1, 1916, $1,000 is appropriated for purchase of an auto truck for other permanent improvements.

State Public School, Sparta: Operation, $55,000 annually; maintenance, July 1, 1916, $5,050; July 1, 1916, $5,050. Construction of cottages, tunnel, electric units, new school house, purchase of plant, $17,550 available July 1, 1916, and $21,500 July 1, 1916.

State Prison, Waupun: Operation, July 1, 1916, $185,000; annually thereafter, $190,000. For maintenance, July 1, 1916, $6,300; July 1, 1916, $6,300. Improvements on female prison, purchase of a gas producer, cell house, and other permanent improvements, $18,200, available July 1, 1916, and $27,000 on July 1, 1916.

Hospital for Criminal Insane, Waupun: Operation, $25,000; maintenance and repairs, $2,000 annually; for completion and equipment of hospital, $55,050 available July 1, 1916, and $2,500 available July 1, 1916.

Green Bay Reformatory. State Reformatory, Green Bay: Operation, July 1, 1916, $75,000; annually thereafter, $84,400. For maintenance and repairs, available July 1, 1916, $4,500, and July 1, 1916, $3,740. For completion and equipment of hospital, $55,050 available July 1, 1916, and $2,500 available July 1, 1916.

Home for Feeble Minded, Chippewa Falls: Operation, $75,000 annually; for maintenance, $9,100 available July 1, 1916, and $9,100 available July 1, 1916. For purchase of new laundry, livestock and plant, $2,525 available July 1, 1916, and $2,200 available July 1, 1916.

"I have been greatly disturbed by the length to which your belief has apparently gone," the young rector went on, and having plunged into this opening he began to breathe more freely. This was familiar ground.

Gail rested a palm on the edge of the bench behind her, and leaned back facing him, supported on one beautifully modeled arm. Her face had set seriously now.

"However," went on the rector, "I do not expect to be able to remove the spiritual errors, which I am compelled to judge that you have accumulated, by any other means than patient logic," he resumed. "May I discuss these matters with you?" His voice was grave and serious, and full of earnest sincerity, and the musical quality alone of it made patient, logical discussion seem attractive.

"If you like," she assented, smiling at him with willful deception. The wicked thought had occurred to her that it might be her own duty to broaden his spiritual understanding.

"Thank you," he accepted gravely. "If you will give me an hour or so each week, I shall be very happy."

"I am nearly always at home on Tuesday and Friday evenings," suggested Gail. "Scarcely anyone calls before eight-thirty, and we have dinner quite early on those evenings."

She began to be sincerely interested in the project. She had never given herself time to quite exactly define her own attitude towards theology as distinct from religion, and she felt that she should do it, if for no other reason than to avoid making impulsive overstatements. Rev. Smith Boyd would help her to look squarely into her own mind and her own soul, for he had a very active intelligence, and was, moreover, the most humanly forceful cleric she had ever met. Besides, they could always finish by singing.

"I shall make arrangements to be over as early as you will permit," declared the rector, warmly aglow with the idea. "We shall begin with the very beginnings of things, and, step by step, develop, I hope, a logical justification of the vast spiritual revolution which has conquered the world."

"I should like nothing better," mused Gail, and since Rev. Smith Boyd rose and stood behind her and filled his lungs, she turned to the piano and struck a preliminary chord, which she trailed off into a tinkling little run, by way of friendly greeting to the piano.

"We shall begin with the creation," pursued the rector, dwelling, with pleasure, on the idea of a thorough progress through the mazes of religious growth. There were certain vague points which he wanted to clear up for himself.

"And wind up with Vedder court," she had not meant to say that. It just popped into her mind, and popped off the end of her tongue.

"Even that will be taken up in its due logical sequence," and Rev. Smith Boyd prided himself on having already displayed the patience which he had come expressly to exercise.

Which they were, at the moment, engaged. He had been studying the tableau with the interest of a connoisseur, and he had devoted his more earnest attention to Rev. Smith Boyd. "So glad to see you," said Gail conventionally, rising and offering him her hand. If there was that strange thrill in his clasp, she was not aware of it.

"I only ran in to see if you'd like to take a private car trip in the new subway before it is opened," offered Allison, turning to shake hands with Rev. Smith Boyd. "Will you join us, doctor?"

For some reason a new sort of jangle had come into the room, and it affected the three of them. Allison was the only one who did not notice that he had taken Gail's acceptance for granted.

"You might tell us when," she observed, transferring the flame of her eyes from the rector to Allison. "I may have conflicting engagements."

"No, you won't," Allison cheerfully informed her; "because it will be at any hour you set."

"Oh," was the weak response, and, recognizing that she was fairly beaten, her white teeth flashed at him in a smile of humor. "Suppose we say ten o'clock tomorrow morning."

"I am free at that hour," stated Doctor Boyd, in answer to a glance of inquiry from Allison. He felt it his duty to keep in touch with public improvements. Also, beneath his duty lay a keen pleasure in the task.

"You'll be very much interested, I think," and Allison glowed with the ever-present pride of achievement, then he suddenly grinned. "The new subway stops at the edge of Vedder court, waiting."

There was another little pause of embarrassment, in which Gail and Rev. Smith Boyd were very careful not to glance at each other. Unfortunately, however, Rev. Smith Boyd was less conscious of automatically and without conscious mental process fold the sheet of music which had long since been placed on the piano.

"Why stop at the edge of Vedder court?" inquired Gail, with a nervous little jerk, much as if the words had been jolted out of her by the awkward slam of the music rack, which had succeeded the removal of the song. "Why not go straight on through, and demolish Vedder court? It is a scandal and a disgrace to civilization, and to the city, as well as to its present proprietors! Vedder court should be annihilated, torn down, burned up, swept from the face of the earth! The board of health should condemn it as unsanitary, the building commission should condemn it as unsafe, the department of public morals should condemn it as unwholesome!"

Rev. Smith Boyd had been engaged in a strong wrestle within himself, but the spirit finally conquered the flesh, and he held his tongue. He remembered that Gail was young, and youth was prone to extravagant impulse. His spirit of forbearance came so strongly to his aid that he was even able to acknowledge how beautiful she was when she was stifled.

Allison had been viewing her with mingled admiration and respect. "By George, that's a great idea," he thoughtfully commented. "Gail, I think I'll tear down Vedder court for you!"

CHAPTER XII.

The Survival of the Fittest. A short, thick old man, gray-bearded and puff-eyed and loaded with enormous jewels, met Gail, Lucile and Arly, Ted Teasdale and Rev. Smith Boyd, at the foot of the subway stairs, and introduced himself with smiling ease as Tim Corman, beaming with much pride in his widespread fame.

"Mr. Allison couldn't be here," explained Tim, leading the way to the brightly lighted private-car. "We're to have charge of everything."

The side doors slid open as they approached, and they entered the carpeted and draped car, furnished with wicker chairs and a well-stocked buffet. In the forward compartment were three responsible-looking men and a motorman, and one of the responsible, a fat gentleman who did not seem to care how his clothes looked, leaned into the parlor.

"All ready?" he inquired, with an air of concealing a secret impression that women had no business here.

Tim Corman, who had carefully seen to it that he had a seat between Gail and Arly, touched Gail on the glove. "Ready, thank you," she replied, glancing brightly at the loosely arrayed fat man, and she could see that immediately a portion of that secret impression was removed.

With an easy glide, which increased with surprising rapidity into express speed, the car slid into the long, glistening tunnel, still moist with the odors of building.

Tim Corman had adroitly blocked Gail into a corner, and was holding her attention. "Ed Allison is one of the smartest boys in New York," he enthusiastically declared. "Did you ever see anybody as busy as he is?"

"He seems to be a very energetic man," Gail assented, with a sudden remembrance of how busy Allison had always been.

"Gets anything he goes after," Tim informed her, and screwed one of his many-puffed eyes into a wink; at which significant action Gail looked out at the motorman. "Never tells his plans to anybody, nor what he wants. Just goes and gets it."

"That's a successful way, I should judge," she responded, now able to see the humor of Tim Corman's volunteer mission, but a red spot beginning to dawn, nevertheless, in either cheek.

"What I like about him is that he always wins," went on Tim. "Nobody in this town has ever passed him the prunes. Do you know what he did? He started with two miles of rust and four horse cars, and now he owns the whole works."

Gail knitted her brows. She had heard something of this marvelous tale before, and it had interested her. She had been groping for an explanation of Allison's tremendous force.

"That was a wonderful achievement. How did he accomplish it?" "Made 'em get off and walk!" boasted Tim, with vast pride in the fact. "Any time Eddie runs across a man that had a street car line, he choked it out of him. He's a wizard."

Tim's statement seemed to be somewhat clouded in metaphor, but Gail managed to gather that Allison had possibly used first-principle methods on his royal pathway to success.

"You mean that he drove them out of business?" "Pushed 'em off!" chuckled Tim. "Anybody Allison likes is lucky," and with the friendly familiarity of an old man, Tim Corman patted Gail on the glove.

"It occurs to me that I'm neglecting my opportunities," observed Gail, rising. "I'm supposed to be running this car," and going to the glass door she looked into the motorman's compartment, which was large, and had seats in it, and all sorts of mysterious tools.

Introduced Himself With Smiling Ease as Tim Corman.

and appliances in the middle of the floor.

Tim Corman, as Allison's personal representative, was right on the spot. "Come on out," he invited, and opened the door, whereupon the three responsible-looking men immediately arose.

"Show her how it works, Tom," he directed.

So it was that Edward E. Allison, standing quite alone on the platform of the Hoadley Park station, saw the approaching trial car stop, and run slowly, and run backwards, and dart forwards, and perform all sorts of experimental movements, before it rushed down to his platform, with a rosy-cheeked girl standing at the wheel, her brown eyes sparkling, her red lips parted in a smile of ecstatic happiness, her hat off and her waving brown hair flowing behind her in the sweep of the wind. To one side stood a highly pleased motorman, while a short, thick old man, and a careless fat man, and a man with a high forehead and one with a red mustache, all smiling indulgently, clogged the space in the rear.

Allison boarded the car, and greeted his guests, and came straight through to the motorman's cage, as Gail, in response to the clang of the bell, pulled the lever. She was just getting that easy starting glide, and she was filled with pride in the fact.

"You should not stand bareheaded in front of that window," greeted Allison, almost roughly; and he closed it. Gail turned very sweetly to the motorman.

"Thank you," she said, and gave him the lever, then she walked back into the car. It had required some repression to avoid recognizing that dictatorial attitude, and Allison felt that she was rather distant, and wondered what was the matter; but he was a practical-minded person, and he felt that it would soon blow over.

"I've been neglecting this view," she observed, gazing out into the rapidly diminishing perspective, then she glanced up sideways at the tall young rector, whose eyes were perfectly blue.

He answered something or other, and the conversation was so obviously a tete-a-tete that Allison remained behind. Tim looked up at Allison with a complacent grin, as the latter sat beside him.

"Well, Eddie, I put in a plug for you," stated Tim, with the air of one looking for approval.

"How's that?" inquired Allison, abstractedly.

"Boosted you to the girl. Say, she's a peach!" Allison looked quickly back at the platform, and then frowned on his zealous friend Tim.

"What did you tell Miss Sargent about me?" "Don't you worry, Eddie; it's all right," laughed Tim. "I hinted to her, so that she had to get it, that you're about the most eligible party in New York. I let her know that no man in this village has ever skinned you. She wanted to know how you made this big combination, and I told her you made 'em all get off, pushed 'em off the map. Take it from me, Eddie, after I got through, she knew where to find a happy home."

Allison's brows knitted in quick anger, and then suddenly, he startled the subway with his first loud laugh. He understood now, or thought he did, Gail's distant attitude; but, knowing what was the matter, he could easily straighten it out.

Height of Ocean Waves. An authority says the height of the waves in a storm rarely exceeds twelve feet, and in very bad disturbances on the high sea they may reach a height of fifty feet. Their length is never over 600 feet. In the southern parts of the Pacific, waves 43 feet in height have been measured, in the southern parts of the Atlantic 39 feet, and in the Mediterranean 12 feet. At places where the waves strike at an oblique angle, such as a lighthouse, their rise, of course, much higher—from 100 to 200 feet. On the open sea, however, they never rise over 50 feet.

Three-year-old David had been unusually unruly. He had received reprimands, threats and finally mild corporal punishment from his father.

With wounded dignity David mounted the stairs to his mother's room. "Mother," he said, in a voice of exasperation, "I can't stand that husband of yours much longer!"

Gounod was a firm and devout Catholic and devout religious music. During the rehearsal of his "Drames Sacres," at the Vaudeville theater the manager called on him one morning and asked permission to make a suggestion.

"I think, mon cher maitre," he said, "that there is something wanting in your score. For example, do you not think that the Barabbas incident might be improved by a little more orchestral effect?"

Gounod, without replying, hid his head in his hands, and, after two or three minutes of meditation, suddenly exclaimed: "No, decidedly no; such a blackguard as that does not deserve more music."

Husbands Had His Good Points. A London mission worker tells how shocked she was to encounter this bit of cynicism in the slums. The conversation was between two women whose married life had not been particularly felicitous. "Well," said one of them, "of course we have our troubles with all of 'em. But I'll say this for my second husband—he's better than my first. He's in jail so much that practically all I earn I have for myself."

WAR CHRONOLOGY

THE STORY OF THE WAR TO READERS, BY THE DAY BY DAY—PRESENTED PRACTICALLY WITHOUT PRICE GAZETTE

AN EXTRAORDINARY TURN of events made it possible for this newspaper to secure a limited allotment of the first edition of this work—by William J. Abbot—the first authoritative writer to publish the glowing truth about the almost indestructible European massacre.

The pen of this renowned author sets forth the brutal, ungarlanded, terrible truth—every word provable—yet violates no neutrality, despite the fact that it bristles with accusation.

This work, richly bound, printed on superior paper with clear, bold type, contains 314 pages of truth and fact, 463 rare and startling half-tone illustrations from the "front" and innumerable full page color plates and maps.

"The Nations at War," a $2.00 volume, can only be secured at the office of this newspaper, by presenting 3 coupons, (found on another page) and the sum of 98c to defray the handling expense.

DAY OF EMERY BALL ENDS WITH PASSING OF YANK STAR FORD

Pitcher Who Discovered Freak Curve Unable to Be Effective When Curve Is Prohibited.

(By Striker.)

The passing of Russell Ford from the major league ends the career of a pitcher who had supreme reign upon the American league for five years and one who wrote a new chapter in baseball history. Ford's release coming last week ended possibly for all time, under the present baseball rules, the celebrated emery ball, against which a hard fight was waged by club officials and batters fond of holding their averages above the three hundred mark.

The emery ball was a distinct discovery of Ford's and had "Cy" Falkenberg, the veteran hurler formerly with St. Louis, possessed more secrecy. Ford might have been burning up the league at the present time instead of being a "big show" outcast. This freak deliver of Ford's suffered from the light of publicity where it was placed by alkalis until it is now strictly prohibited. As a freak delivery, it was a world beater as soon as nitcher mastered it. It could set down the nightest of swat kings without trouble.

Russell Ford in his "bushin" days happened to be warming up for a game when a "splitter" he was throwing with wild and struck the grandstand. When the ball was received, it was a "curve" incident that Ford touched his mottled fingers on a broken backside of the baseball where it had hit the grandstand. On the next pitch, he and the ball, there was a wonder curve, that broke with baffling quickness and amazing hook. Ford was unwarily discovered the emery ball. Holding his fingers tightly against the rougher surface, Ford pitched again, and each time the ball deviated from its path in a terrific curve.

Experimenting with the new ball, Ford finally mastered its delivery but did not use it in championship games until some time afterwards. When the long dreamed of chance for the major league came to Ford, he went to the New York American club and was fanned out to the minors for more seasoning. Then and there Ford made use of this freak ball and developed it under the name of "split-ball." He attached a piece of sandpaper to his glove and with this roughened the surface of the ball and soon the heaviest hitters were unable to come within a foot of it.

Practice made perfect and soon the young recruit hung up a record that brought him back to the Yankees. It is true to say, the next season he was the sensation of the pitchers of the American league, winning twenty-six games with a team defense that was the poorest in the circuit. Carefully guarding his secret, and fortunately, the discovery of the ball, years before, went to the Yankees and was a pitcher, it was a detriment to the team for the roughened surface caused numerous wild throws and errors, much in the same manner as does a splitter. Ford employed emery to roughen a small surface of the ball, through which it obtained its name. Then long Cy Falkenberg got wind of the secret and being on the down ward path applied the use of the emery way to stay his obituary in major league ball. But before long the clubs watched these two pitchers and obtained the secret and as a result was put through stopping its use and practice. Since then neither Ford nor Falkenberg have been able to produce results—their old ability being gone through age and their depending on the emery ball to pull them through.

GRAVES IN FRENCH CEMETERY WHERE WINE WAS HID FROM GERMANS

Cologne, July 22.—When the German army moved in and took possession of Laon last fall, they found a strange shortage of wine in a section of France where wine ordinarily is about as plentiful as water.

Then one day a French shell landed inadvertently on what appeared to be the grave of a French soldier, and his explosion was followed by the sound of breaking glass. The Germans investigated and found that the "grave" was in reality a small wine cellar. The French had merely buried their wine and erected a cross to disarm suspicion.

A careful scrutiny of the numerous "graves" around Laon kept the hospital supplied for some time, but eventually the supply again gave out.

ALEXANDER MASTERS CUBS UNTIL RAIN STOPS GAME

Philadelphia, July 22.—Grover Cleveland Alexander held the Cubs helpless yesterday, and at the end of the sixth inning, when rain halted the game, the rampant Phillies were leading the Chicago club 1 to 0. In the fifth two hits put runners on third and first with no outs, when the mighty and fiercest of pitchers, Alexander, struck out the next three batters.

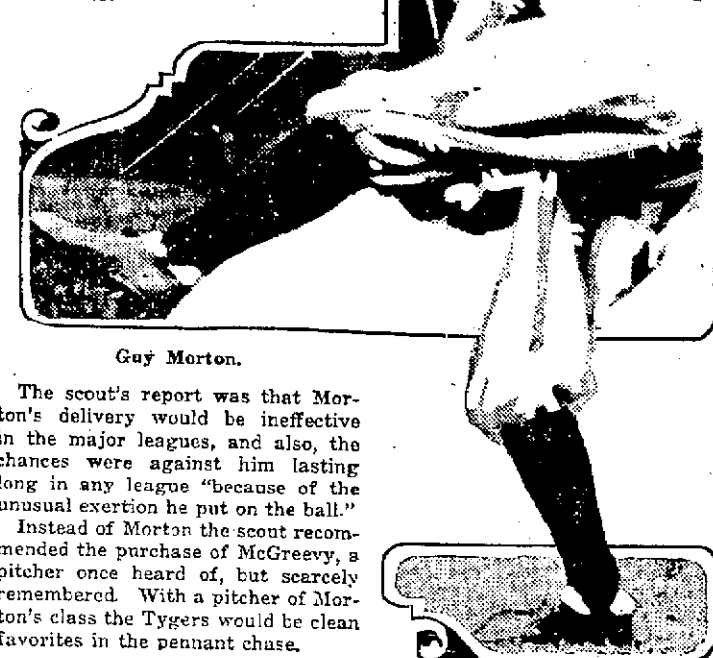

Chicago, July 22.—The Chicago White Sox open a four game series today with the New York Yankees. Yesterday the Sox lost to the Henry Greys at Henry, 11-10, by the score of 3 to 2. Walsh pitched two innings and held the Greys' runless. Alexander succeeded him. In the seventh he was humped hard. Barnes, a former Cub recruit, baffled the Sox.

Jack Ness, first baseman of the Oakland team of the Pacific Coast league, broke the world's record for hitting in consecutive games by lining out a hit in the forty-first consecutive game in the contest against Salt Lake City the other day. The previous record of hits in forty games was held by Ty Cobb.

Charlie Dooin, ex-Red manager, is quite anxious to see McCloskey, the Findlay southpaw, make good with the Reds. "I discovered McCloskey," says Caruso, "I recommended him to Mr. Hermann, and if he wins out please remember that I did the Cincinnati club this little favor just before I went away."

NOT WORTH $200 IN 1913; NOW $20,000!

Owner Navin of the Tigers writes in agony every time he reads a line about Guy Morton of the Indians these days. Guy would have been a Tiger a couple of years ago had a Detroit scout made a favorable report. Morton could have been purchased at that time for $200; today Navin would give $20,000 for the Cleveland.

Guy Morton.

The scout's report was that Morton's delivery would be ineffective in the major leagues, and also, the chances were against him lasting long in any league "because of the unusual exertion he put on the ball." Instead of Morton the scout recommended the purchase of McGreevy, a pitcher once heard of, but scarcely remembered. With a pitcher of Morton's class the Tigers would be clean favorites in the pennant chase.

LEFT HOOK BRINGS WHITE EVEN BATTLE

New York, July 22.—Charley White escaped a beating last night from Ted "Kid" Lewis, English lightweight, when the Chicago Hebrew crashed a stinging left hook to the jaw of the invader in the tenth round with such force and power that it balanced up an early lead obtained by Lewis. Lewis proved a clever boy of the dancing type of boxer. His amateur days did not hit White hard enough to hurt him, and the English shadow to evade White's "goodnight" left hook. He dodged dozens of them in the early part of the battle, but each time White shot one across it staggered to bring across his right successfully in the follow-up punch. Lewis had a good shade until the last two and sent a crushing blow in the tenth that reeled Lewis against the ropes.

The feature of the show was the number of suffragettes present from a suffrage meeting in New York. One of the leaders attempted to give a speech from the ring, but the gallery fans "crabbed" the affair.

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

The Brooklyn team are the real comebacks. The present thrillers of the league. For several years this club has had splendid material, but, unfortunately, trailed way down after the crowd at which the players, and the team may be due to crack in any time. Then, again, the real heart of the club may have forced itself as it were, to recognize itself; the Brooklyn may at last have realized how good they are, or ought to be, and started in for laurels, flags and world's series money. One great drawback to the success of the team this season was the failure of Vincent and Stengel, the batting stars of the outfit (next to Daubert), to get going with the stick. Wheat is hitting them now and as soon as Stengel starts it will be a desperate task to break the force of the Brooklyn rush. Nap Rucker came back the other day and pitched a corking good game. Dehl and Appleton, the new pitching finds of the club, haven't blown so far, and Pfeiffer seems as good as he was last season, which was plenty.

They are talking world's series in Brooklyn with the utmost good faith and with some rightful reason. Brooklyn's overthrow of the Cubs seems to show that Robbie's men can can maintain their nerve and self-possession. It's a cinch that if Brooklyn actually grabs off a flag, the over-the-bridge populace will go plumb crazy.

An incident happened at Boston the other day that cannot be overlooked. On a play that decided a close game, the umpire evidently erred. Rigger made the decision at the plate and Hart was working in the field. Johnny Evers, from the coaching line, turned and addressed the crowd several times with the statement that the umpires had been ordered to make the umpires had been governed by this feeling in making decisions on the field. In other words, Evers openly accused the magnates of dishonesty, according to the story sent from Boston. Probably there is no worse umpire biter in the National league than Evers, and he is out there all the time to "get" the umpire, but then Johnny is a pretty wise chap, is captain of the world's champions, and while he might want to banter with the umps, he would not make that statement and get away with it several times, according to the story, unless he felt he could back it up. It is known that the umpires have been told to "be lenient" in a lot of cases, but Evers' charges need a statement from the magnates. If the brave captain is wrong, then he should be punished far worse than if he committed some rule violation in a game, for he did more to destroy public confidence in the game, by the remark charged to him, than anything that has happened this year.

Late reports from Glendora, Cal., indicate Frank Chance's smile is able to tie Bill Donovan's more famous one.

Quite right was the great showman who said: "There's a new one born every minute. There was one at Brooklyn not long ago, and he was a pippin. He was seated in a box, well down front, with a flock of military, and when a whizzing foul tip heroic attitude, and intercepted said foul ball with an expensive Panama lid. The ball went straight through the hat without even stopping to breathe, as he gazed upon the wreckage, was worth spending 40 cents to see.

Banana-Fed Hogs Beat. It has been found that the worn-out banana lands of Central and South America make ideal pasture for hogs. Animals fattened on the grass found in these lands, and on the small unmarketable bunches of bananas which grow there, produce a superior, almost odorless lard and finely flavored meat.

THE GOOD JUDGE WAS PUZZLED AT FIRST

NO JUDGE, THAT IS NOT THE BREAD LINE THAT STORE HAS JUST RECEIVED A FRESH SUPPLY OF THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW.

WELL, WELL, THAT CERTAINLY PROVES THAT MOST MEN DON'T STICK TO THE OLD KIND WHEN THERE IS SOMETHING BETTER.

CROWDS of men in every community using the Real Tobacco Chew—because it satisfies them better than any of the old kind.

When men who for years have tried brand after brand get started on the Real Tobacco Chew, you can bet that they're glad they've got it.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS NOW CUT TWO WAYS!! W-B CUT IS LONG SHRED. RIGHT-CUT IS SHORT SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is the Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end. The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

(Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste.)
